SUMMARY.

The German condition to retreat from the front. The British have advanced north of Beaufort 600 yards on a front of 15 miles. The British discharged nine south of Beaufort and made a raid. They also entered positions north-east of Givresy.

The enemy raided British trenches near Rancourt and Rancourt, but were ejected.

Marine Nauta gave a tribute to General Gough's prudent tactics.

The German command hoped the British would fall into their trap by advancing their cavalry and infantry.

A German official message says: We voluntarily surrendered our positions on the south and took up another defensive line.

A French communiqué reports a fairly violent artillery action on the fortresses and defences from the 2nd to the 4th.

Mr. W. H. Foster, reviewing the military situation, said the Germans retreat from the area must unfavourably affect the enemy.

Probably, he thought, it was a defensive move in order to economise strength for the great blow.

The Germans have fired about £8000 and demanded a similar amount for alleged breaking of peace reports.

All officials in Germany who have not voluntarily joined the national service are to be forced to work in munition factories.

Heavy losses are reported to have occurred in the attacks.

The London denounces Germany's antisocial policy and the unlimited submarine warfare.

He declared that the German claim for a long indemnity was impossible of fulfilment.

Lord Robert Cecil stated that a serious naval attack had been made on us, and that naval assets in enemy countries.

Mr. Blomberg states that negotiations are proceeding between Germany and Denmark in regard to the passage of foodstuffs.

This, however, is regarded as unlikely.

The London Parliament rejected a Socialist motion by 277 to 21.

The Premier was enthusiastically cheered when he declared Italy's adhesion to the Entente.

A hostile aeroplane dropped bombs on us, on the Kentish coast, and slightly missed a woman.

An Italian official message states: We communicated on the Jacobson-Klimpung.

We were unsuccessful to the north.

The Italian, however, recaptured the southern French Government is carefully considering the effect of the restriction of British imports of French trade.

The British scheme includes a provision for strict censorship to France.

The forces in Mesopotamia, Mr. W. H. Forster said, had been shattered, and can only be regarded as a disorganized mob.

The British cavalry and gunboats continued to pursuit the beaten enemy all day on Friday.

Fighters Wilson has authorised an emergency to his letter from Berlin, in which he said Minister in Mexico was authentic.

A resolution has been introduced in the German Reichstag.

The London has decided that either Japan is likely to lead itself to German or to the plot.

The House of Representatives has passed a bill empowering the President to arm

the nation.

Additional development occurred in the Senate.

Mr. Watson made a series of allegations that certain inducements had been offered to him.

Mr. Hughes declared he had done nothing but make an appeal to the member to vote in his name.

He intimated that Mr. John Davis had been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Ready.

The new senator's arrival is in the Chamber expected by the Labour party with delight.

At the meeting of the executive of the Lord

Higham Fund the statements as to alleged agent of soldiers' dependents were refuted.

Mr. Talbot stated at a meeting of the old Comrades and Sailors' League that the Higham Fund was to be suspended, but not intended to recommend a meeting to which the association should be invited.

Mr. E. G. Elworthy, who acted as Red Cross Commissioner in Egypt, was accorded a polite welcome at Grafton.

The resolution of Mr. P. Brookfield to quit the P.L.S. was adopted.

The role of the Greeks in the I.W.W. appeal case was opened before the Court of Appeal yesterday.

Mr. Lane contended that no substantial loss had been done by his Honor's directions in the case.

The Hon. G. E. Turner, M.A., D.D., chaplain

to St. Andrew's College, Sydney,

at the Farmers and Settlers' annual meeting of 1916, was present.

Mr. Turner, who is the wheat farmers' chief host upon having a voice in the subscription of the pool.

The farmers are protesting strongly against the new railway rates on agricultural manures.

The Post Office revenue for February shows a balance of £30,210, as compared with the same period last year.

A Bill was granted yesterday in the session of the late Lieut. Thomas Stirling, who was accidentally killed in France.

The estate, which was valued at £123,000,

was bequeathed to his widow and children.

At a general meeting of the Small Arms

Manufacturers' Association the long hours worked at the factory was discussed.

It was decided that the time had arrived when it should be determined whether the eight hour principle should be applied.

The first Australian casualty list contains names including those of 134 killed or 400 wounded.

A Bill has been introduced in the Senate to repeal the Daylight Saving Act. The first reading was agreed to.

The Perth Chamber of Commerce has demanded the Federal Government to recall the Daylight Saving Act immediately.

At the Methodist conference discussion took place respecting the proper care of Methodist and baptismal registers.

Mr. James Gardner has been elected

President of the Legislative Assembly at Perth.

The moderate business was transacted in informal manner on the Stock Exchange today.

A fairly large amount of business was waged in the mining division.

The most noticeable feature was a considerable increase in the general market.

Stocks in the general markets is reckoned as being at the times.

Stocks were well attended.

Most lines of forge and arm were easily met after, and quotations were firm at the close of business.

The London wool sales competition was held yesterday.

The London butter market was cabled as firm,

and a strong demand in the northern markets generally, and further sales along the coast, and some heavy sales in northern districts; equally so in the general market.

THE ANCER

ADVANCE LESS MARKED

600 YARDS AT ONE POINT

U.S.A. SHIPSQUESTION OF ARMING

APPROVED BY LOWER CHAMBER

Except at one point, no further advance by the British is reported from the Ancer front.

North of Miraumont, an advance of 600 yards was made on a 1½ mile front.

The House of Representatives, by 403 votes to 13, has passed the bill giving the President power to arm merchantmen against submarines.

Germany has declined the United States's invitation to modify the submarine campaign.

The British, continuing the pursuit of the battered Turkish army towards Bagdad, have made important captures of war material.

ENEMY WITHDRAWAL

BRITISH AVOID TRAP.

LONDON, March 1. Sir Douglas Haig, in his midnight report thus stated:—

We captured during February 2133 prisoners, including 36 officers.

The enemy continues to retreat. We advanced north of Miraumont 600 yards at a mile and a half front.

We discharged our south of Souchez, and made a raid. We also entered trench-east of Givry.

The enemy rallied on trenches near Abbeville and Rancourt, but was ejected.

BRITISH PRUDENT TACTICS.

Mr. Marcel Hulin, the French writer, in a tribute to General Gorringe's prudent tactics, said:—

The German command hoped the British would fall into a clumsy trap by driving their cavalry and infantry from the retirement began.

Lord Humbert, writing in "Le Journal," says the Germans were compelled to retreat because it was no longer possible to remain in the torn up ground, and breathable air, owing to the British guns pouring out an inexhaustible stream of shrapnel, projectiles, gas bombs, and explosives. The battle, he says, demonstrates the superiority of the British artillery.

ENEMY'S ACCOUNT OF EVACUATION.

(Admiralty via Wireless Press.)

A German official message says:—We voluntarily evacuated our foremost positions on both banks of the Ancer, and took up another defensive line.

The enemy remained in ignorance of our movements. Our rearguards compelled the enemy to fight for possession of the distant country, and retreated before superior numbers. Our weak defences inflicted unnecessary losses.

British attacks at Le Troncay and Sully failed, with the exception of two narrow positions, which were captured.

A German official report on Thursday stated: A strong English attack east of Amiens failed.

ARTILLERY AT VERDUN.

The French communiqué issued at midnight on Thursday reported that there had been fairly violent artillery fire on the Chambray-Bezonvau front (north of Verdun).

STORMY REICHSTAG.

AMSTERDAM, March 1. Stormy scenes are reported to have occurred in the Reichstag.

Herr Ledebour is an amazingly frank speech referred to Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's criticism of British methods in the war, and pointed out that the Boers were now fighting on the British side because they had immediately received self-government. Germany ought to imitate England's methods of government. Germany may not wish to liberate Poland, she wanted soldiers.

There was much disturbance during the course of the speech, which denounced Germany's annexation policy, and outlined submarine campaign. Finally he admitted the abolition of the monarchy.

The Vice-President of the Reichstag repeated called Ledebour to order, saying that his utterances were an insult to the Imperial party.

AMSTERDAM, March 1. Herr Ledebour declared that his party alone opposed the whole system of German Government. The claim for a large indemnity was impossible of fulfilment.

Dr. Heitfelder, an Imperial Treasurer, protested that Herr Ledebour's party represented a very small section of the nation.

AEROPLANE ACCIDENT.

LONDON, March 1. While aeromining at Dorking, Captain Deacon (the New Zealand soldier who was successful in the recent destruction of the German Zeppelin) struck a tree in a heavy fog and fell. He sustained a severe fracture of a leg, and was confidential.

PURSUIT OF TURKS."DISORGANISED MOB."*CAPTURES BY THE BRITISH.

LONDON, March 2. Mr. H. W. Forster (Financial Secretary to the War Office), during the discussion in the House of Commons on the army estimates, said that the Turks in Mesopotamia had been badly shattered, and could only reach Bagdad as a disorganized mob. Their losses since December had been over 20,000.

An official message says:—Our cavalry and gunboats continued the pursuit of the beaten enemy all day on Tuesday. We captured six guns, a large river vessel, a number of prisoners, 30 pontoons, much bridging material, a quantity of equipment, arms, and ammunition.

WAR ORGANISATION.REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENTS.

LONDON, March 1. In the House of Commons, Mr. H. W. Forster (Financial Secretary to the War Office), reviewing the military operations, said that the German retreat from the Ancer must unfavourably affect the enemy troops, also the German people when it is revealed, but probably it was a mere defensive measure in order to economise strength for a great blow.

Every indication existed that the enemy was making a supreme endeavour to end the war in his favour this year, and his effort could only be successfully met by a corresponding determination by the Empire and its Allies. Britain had about reached the stage when the commanding claims of their army and of India must be upheld with sole regard to national interest. Recruiting figures this year showed an improvement, but still more men were needed, and immediately needed.

Mr. Forster mentioned that the enlargement of the air service had meant a difficulty in obtaining suitable aerodromes. Flying schools had been opened in Canada and Egypt. He did not want to boast concerning Zeppelins, but we had profited by experience.

Nothing in the war had been more striking than the conquest of disease. Enteric had almost disappeared. The cases at present in France were four, in Salonic, nine, in Egypt three, and in Mesopotamia eight. Typhoid cases in France during the war period had been 4571 compared with 60,000 in the South African war. Venereal disease was not higher than in peace time.

As regards foods we were endeavouring to make expeditions self-supporting, chiefly in vegetables. One thousand tons of crude glycerine for explosives was extracted from camp refuse—enough for 12,500,000 18-pounder shells.

Mr. Forster, illustrating the need for the control of important industries, mentioned that we had manufactured 100,000 miles of funnel khaki cloth.

THE ENEMY'S FOOD."SERIOUS SHORTAGE."

LONDON, March 1. The King and Queen telegraphed their sympathies to Mr. Lloyd George in connection with the loss of the Lusitania.

The Japanese Ambassador has denied any knowledge that Japan was involved in the German-Mexican plot.

GUNS FOR AMERICAN SHIPS.

The House of Representatives has considered the bill empowering the President to arm merchantmen.

A Republican leader declared that it was impossible for a patriotic nation to refuse to give the President power to protect American rights.

A Democratic leader, Mr. Kitchin, a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, declared that American ships must be protected peacefully if possible; but by force of arms if necessary.

The bill was passed by 403 votes to 13. The bill has still to be dealt with by the Senate.

GERMAN PLOTS.

EL PASO, March 1. Important papers were stolen from the German Consulate at Juarez on Thursday night.

It has been ascertained that 3000 Germans are working in Mexico endeavouuring to cause war with the United States. They are headed together in an "Iron Cross Society."

ITALY'S LOYALTY.

ROME, March 1. The Italian Parliament rejected a coalition peace motion by 227 votes to 31. This amounts to a vote of confidence in the Government.

Signor Boselli (Premier) was enthusiastically cheered when he asserted Italy's firm adhesion to the Entente, and declared that peace can only come through victory.

CRUSHING THE BELGIANS.

ZURICH, March 1. According to a German legal paper the Germans have sentenced 103,000 Belgians to various penalties during the period of the war, including one hundred who were sentenced to death. It is imprisonment, 501 to deportation, and the remainder were ordered to pay fines.

Lord Robert Cecil (Minister of Blockade) stated in the House of Commons that it was now safe to say that a serious shortage of foodstuffs and certain vital materials existed in enemy countries. A Copenhagen message says it is officially admitted that exports of bacon to Germany in December and January exceeded the allowances mentioned in the Anglo-Dutch agreement. Negotiations with the British Legation have resulted in a settlement, whereby Britain's shortage will be compensated. A committee is investigating methods to prevent a recurrence.

GERMAN REPLY TO U.S.A.SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN CONTINUES.

(Admiralty via Wireless Press.)

LONDON, March 1. Herr Zimmerman (German Foreign Minister), speaking in the Reichstag, and negotiations were proceeding between Germany and Turkey with a view to prolonging the existence of a limited amount of foodstuffs, but this would not modify the blockade. It was only after long consideration that we resolved that the submarines were our sharpest weapon. Since the obstinate refusal of our peace offer we are determined to make the full use of our last and best weapon.

"The Swiss Ambassador at Washington," he added, "has informed us that America desires to avoid war, and that the Ambassador will willingly act on behalf of Germany if the latter wished to discuss the 'Daily Chronicle,' referring to the ex parte report of the Dardanelles Commission." He Pringle asked were not the omissions the result of the arrangement whereby the commission had been appointed.

Mr. Bonar Law replied that obviously the Government could not include in the report what foreign Governments had sent to leaders of various parties in the House. The omissions had been made at the request of some of the Government concerned.

Mr. Pringle asked were not the omissions the result of the arrangement whereby the commission had been appointed.

Mr. Bonar Law replied that obviously the Government could not include in the report what foreign Governments took part in the Dardanelles Commission.

The "Daily Chronicle," referring to the ex parte report of the Dardanelles Commission, says the Foreign Office objected to the publication of the report, which may be due to one of our Allies. It is difficult to understand the mystery, for the facts mentioned in the omitted section are notorious, having been the subject of newspaper comment in enemy, allied, and neutral countries.

Sir Richard Easby, who why preference was given to the party leading the Dardanelles Commission, finally he admitted the abolition of the monarchy.

The Vice-President of the Reichstag repeated called Ledebour to order, saying that his utterances were an insult to the Imperial party.

AMSTERDAM, March 1. Herr Ledebour declared that his party alone opposed the whole system of German Government. The claim for a large indemnity was impossible of fulfilment.

Dr. Heitfelder, an Imperial Treasurer, protested that Herr Ledebour's party represented a very small section of the nation.

AEROPLANE ACCIDENT.

LONDON, March 1. While aeromining at Dorking, Captain Deacon (the New Zealand soldier who was successful in the recent destruction of the German Zeppelin) struck a tree in a heavy fog and fell. He sustained a severe fracture of a leg, and was confidential.

OFFER TO MEXICO.GERMANY'S LETTER.*DECLARED AUTHENTIC.

WASHINGTON, March 1.

President Wilson has authorised Senator Swanson to inform Congress that the letter from Berlin to the German Minister in Mexico City (Herr von Eckhardt), suggesting an alliance with Mexico to President Carranza, and that Mexico should seek to bring Japan into the plot, is authentic.

The German Ambassador to Mexico City says that Herr Eckhardt declares he knows nothing of Herr Zimmermann's Note.

"ALL INFORMATION."

A resolution has been introduced in the Senate requesting from the President all information as to the German Note sent to Mexico.

ARMY'S LETTER.NORTH OF THE ANCER.

LONDON, March 1.

A Russian official message states: We counter-attacked on the Jacobsen-Klimpfang high road, on the north-west frontier of Moldavia, where the enemy captured positions yesterday. We were unsuccessful to the north, but we recaptured the southern position.

The Romanians captured a height north of the Zaval River.

BROADSTAIRS BOMBED.

LONDON, March 1.

The Press Bureau announces that a British aeroplane bombed Broadstairs, on the Kentish coast, this morning, and slightly injured a woman.

RUSSIAN FRONT.

LONDON, March 1.

A Russian official message states: We claims no additional gain except an advance of 500 yards on a front of a mile and half to the north of the village of Mirzamont. This advance is, of course, by no means satisfactory, but it does not support any theories regarding a very extensive withdrawal on the part of the enemy, which still remains in a more momentous than the elimination of the awkward right angle in their front between Gommecourt and Guisecourt. This right angle, which the Germans previously referred to as the "Scheren," appears to have threatened to unmask the enemy's best battery positions. The British advance from the south towards Bapaume, which might have been expected as soon as weather conditions improved, promised to carry their line to Loupart Wood, whence a clear road to the west and south-west, the former being the whole of the depression between Bapaume ridge and the line of heights near Puisieux would be obtained. The whole of this little valley, which carries what is known as the Mirzamont Brook, a tributary of the Ancer, would certainly have been dominated by the British before very long. This would have made the position of the enemy troops to the west and south-west, the former being the same as the "Scheren" far safer, and would decide to withdraw from the area. The Germans have proposed a reign of terror over certain parts of America. It is believed that von Bernstorff misused the power given him to codify certain messages to Berlin. The Note was published because the President wanted to prepare the people for a state of war, which is inevitable.

WAR NOTES.

LONDON, March 1.

Although Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig

claims no additional gain except an advance of 500 yards on a front of a mile and half to the north of the village of Mirzamont. This advance is, of course, by no means satisfactory, but it does not support any theories regarding a very extensive withdrawal on the part of the enemy, which still remains in a more momentous than the elimination of the awkward right angle in their front between Gommecourt and Guisecourt. This right angle, which the Germans previously referred to as the "Scheren," appears to have threatened to unmask the enemy's best battery positions. LATE WAR NEWS.

LONDON, March 1.

The latest messages from the British front state that aeroplanes are busy scouting and photographing in clear sunlight. No German aeroplanes have been seen. The enormous increase in railway material which was recently made on the British front is likely to prove most valuable in following up the Germans. Sunshine and fresh winds are drying the earth, making rapid road construction possible.

WESTERN FRONT.

LONDON, March 1.

The Dominions Commission, in its report on Canada, states that there is a strong opposition to emigration to Canada, as it is now carried on, particularly among the wage-earners in the cities.

The Commission agrees that the objection to creating a surplus of labour in the cities is well-founded.

Too much attention has hitherto been devoted to improving agricultural implements and motor vehicles.

The action of the New Zealand

Government in subsidising steamship services has considerably assisted the Canadian-Ne

Zealand trade.

It is regrettable that British shipping com panies dealing with Canada sometimes charge lower freight for foreign goods than for British goods. The foreign goods are in the same ship and travel longer distances.

over to Melbourne on the Wednesday for a meeting of the Senate. The Senate did not meet on Wednesday that week. It met on Thursday. And so the receipt of my telegram Senator Watson left Sydney on Tuesday to come here by Wednesday.

Senator O'Keefe: There was a party meeting on that day.

Senator Pearce, continuing, said that he was under the impression that Senator Watson had come to Melbourne to see him in consequence of the telegram, so that the Senator would continue his tour with the Prime Minister. He had arranged a meeting between Senator Watson and the Prime Minister.

Senator Mullens (NSW) asked Senator Watson whether he had come on the Wednesday.

Senator Gardiner (NSW) asked Senator Mullens, leader of the Chamber, if he viewed the statement made by Senator Watson, which constituted the charges ever made against a Prime Minister, he continued, "I have no objection to the conversation with Senator Watson. I asked him to consider the case as a whole. He does not deny that he has been asked to do so. There are facts, and I absolutely deny anything beyond the appeal to his conscience and his convictions."

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

I come now to the resignation that took place. In my opinion it is vital that Australia should be represented at the Imperial Conference. I will never leave Australia until one or two things is decided on—whether that is an election or the post-war conference.

Senator Mullens said the business would be proceeded with, and would, however, place in the Prime Minister's hands the "Hammer" of what had occurred.

NEW MEMBER.

Shortly afterwards the new member of the Senate, Senator Mullens, who was received into the chamber by Senators Bakhsh and Guthrie. His arrival was greeted by members of the Labour party with cries of "Well done, Mullens! Welcome to the house!" and "Over the body of a comrade!"

MR. TUDOR'S DEMAND.

INQUIRY BY ROYAL COMMISSION.

VIGOROUS REPLY BY MR. HUGHES.

MELBOURNE. Friday.

The matter was introduced in the House of Representatives by Mr. Tudor, leader of the official Labour party. He said that a most important statement had been made in another place that reflected on the honour and the integrity of the Commonwealth Parliament.

At least one member of the House had had his name brought into the discussion. Mr. Tudor then proceeded to recite what had been said in the other sitting, outlining the charges made by Senator Watson.

He said that it was necessary that action should be taken in view of the statements made.

Mr. Tudor then proposed, and the Premier of Tasmania was hurriedly called into New South Wales to see the Prime Minister last week that he was away on the tour of inspection. At that time, that hurriedly left for Hobart, came back to Sydney, and that since the resignation took place yesterday in another place of Senator Mullens had been born in a moment of the Senate I will not go into the details to ascertain the whole facts. Although the President told the Senate last night that the resignation did not take place until one minute after the speech, he said that he already swore on the "Caucus cries of 'Scan-dals! Disgraceful!'"

Mr. Tudor then asked the names of Senators Givens and the Minister for Defence, heard one of them speak (the President), but he did not deny one single word that was said by Senator Watson. He said he could not say what was bribery and corruption in the room private and confidential, but there are some things that are not private and confidential when they concern the honour of this country. Those will be corroborative evidence. I do not desire to fog this matter. There is no speech I ever got up to make with my reluctance, but I say it is not the duty of the people to put up with what is bribery and corruption in the public life of Parliament. It is the duty of every man to do his best to search it.

Mr. Mullens (Q): This is the man who talked of German gold. Where is the German gold now?

Mr. Tudor: I have to prove that the statement made in another place relating to attempted bribery and corruption, also the circumstances surrounding the removal of Senator Ready, has proved a Royal Commission, which I expect will be given the High Court of Australia.

Mr. Burns (NSW) seconded the motion.

PRIVATE MINISTER'S DENIAL.

Mr. Hughes, in reply, said: "The hon. member has made what is, in effect, charges against members of our party, in their nature the gravest possible, that they should be allowed to withdraw. I call upon, on the spur of the moment, to deal with those charges and I can only deal with them on the statement that I have been given.

I have not had the opportunity to read the speeches of gentlemen in another place, but I shall recite the facts, and then you will have another moment in your life. You know the type of men who now lead the Labour movement. They also voted against the Commonwealth Ready, and against the Ministry. He also voted against the Ministry on a subsequent division on the question of postponing the Federal elections until after the war.

SENATOR SUSPENDED.

There who are now on this side of the House. It was on the request of members now sitting on the other side of the House that I went to Adelaide, Sydney, and Brisbane only to get a free hand for them. There are means at the disposal of the men opposite which they use without scruple, and now, when one of them finds himself suspected, he tries to make himself right with the party by using many falsehoods and more unscruples than those. Members of the other side have rallied me ever since I dared to introduce into this country a fundamental plan of democracy—the referendum. Mr. E. H. Harries, expects to be appraised during this afternoon of all the nominations received.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

I come now to the resignation that took place. In my opinion it is vital that Australia should be represented at the Imperial Conference. I will never leave Australia until one or two things is decided on—in the new Parliament. This is, however, grave danger in several seats which are looked upon certain to return Nationalists representatives. We have some of these seats now, and the two seats which are not yet perfectly satisfied when a resignation is made, or was likely to be made, in making arrangements so that Parliament could be continued. (Caucus laughs.)

I was justified in seeing that a majority in the ministry was secured. I believe that the members endeavoured to do their best, but I did not know at the time I was told it would be a representative of the Commonwealth. On that I acted.

Mr. Catto (NSW) said that Mr. Lee, Premier of Tasmania, went to Sydney.

Mr. Hughes: I absolutely deny anything that has been said about Mr. Lee. He has been sworn in as a member of the Senate as good a Labour man as any man opposite. (Amidst cheering.) I am aware of the fact that a Nationalist candidate has announced himself for the Senate. The National campaign recently has been going on, and I am sure that a Labour candidate will be successful.

A similar retraction is made by Mr. John A. Lucas of Petersham, who says he is in contest with Mr. D. P. Harries, secretary of the Australian Labor Party, for the seat of Eastern Suburbs.

Mr. Mullens (NSW) said the strongest position had been made for a searching inquiry.

CLOUD OF POISON GAS.

Sir Wm. Irving (Vic) said all were agreed to the proposal of Parliament to ban the use and importation of Paragraph 16 of the motion submitted by the member for Yarra last October.

Mr. Mullens (NSW) said that the National Labour party's candidate for Drummond, "I can under no circumstances agree to carry a Labour label," he writes. "I have been pleased to run as a Nationalist candidate."

A. J. Carruthers has completely withdrawn from the Willoughby contest. He is in favour of the proposal of Parliament to ban the use and importation of Paragraph 16.

"But Mr. Holman and his colleagues," said Mr. Storry, "have stated scores of times that the National Labour party is not a matter for the State. It is a matter for the Commonwealth." He added: "I tendered my resignation at the next meeting of the Willoughby branch of the P.L.L., and offered myself to the National party, without success."

Perry Davis has been selected as the Nationalist candidate for Surrey Hills, vice Alderman Walker, who retired from the race.

In reply, he said he would state definitely that Senator Watson had been offered money to retire or to support the Government. He was asked if he could state what was bribery and corruption in the House. He will stand at Dublin, Tullamarine, and Frankston, and will be supported by the National party.

Mr. Mullens (NSW) said that he had promised Senator Watson a sum of money, but he did not know what it was.

Mr. Mullens (NSW) said that he had been called into New South Wales to see the Prime Minister last week that he was away on the tour of inspection. He said that he hurriedly left for Hobart, came back to Sydney, and that since the resignation took place yesterday in another place of Senator Mullens had been born in a moment of the Senate I will not go into the details to ascertain the whole facts. Although the President told the Senate last night that the resignation did not take place until one minute after the speech, he said that he already swore on the "Caucus cries of 'Scan-dals! Mr. Burns (NSW) seconded the motion.
